HISTORY OF ICE CREAM

First Century Fiddler Fathers Fountain Fantasies.

Believe it or not the whole thing started back when Emperor Nero played his fiddle. Nero had the brilliant brainstorm that led to the fabulous discovery of ice cream. It was Emperor Nero, in the first century, who sent fleets of slaves to the mountains to bring back snow and ice to cool and perhaps freeze the fruit drinks he favored.

Then in the "Gay Nineties" of the thirteenth century a world traveler named Marco Polo brought back from the Orient a recipe for making water ices, which he said had been in use in the region for thousands of years. Nero fiddled while the ice cream froze.

Who Was Charles of the Fizz?

Actually 300 years ago, he was Charles the First of England. The King's French chef had concocted a frozen dessert or cream ice which the assembled gourmets received and consumed with delight. The King was so pleased with this culinary masterpiece that he invoked executive privilege by pensioning the cook with a 500 British pound annual stipend just to restrict the recipe to the royal table. (See... our fountain fizzicists do have a future!)

The Sigh Heard 'Round the World

Seventy-five years before the shot was fired at Lexington, the soon-to-be-Americans were oohing and aahing over ice cream delicacies made by a New York caterer named Phillip Physic (no phooling, that was his real name.)

President George Washington, knowing a great tradition when he saw one, had pewter ice cream pots and ice cream making machines in his Mount Vernon home. (His favorite was strawberry.)

President Madison's wife, Dolly, kept things jolly in the White House by introducing ice cream to the Executive banquet table and by then, ice cream was as American as apple pie. (If your soda hasn't arrived yet, keep reading!)

Ice Cream Cone is World's Fair Favorite

The Ice Cream Cone was introduced at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. It has remained a favorite to this day where as many as 4,500,000 are sold each year.

Syrups, Sodas, & Sundaes

Back when Andy Jackson was still in the backwoods of Tennessee, the folks there were sipping carbonated water thanks to a fella named John Mathews. Soda water was known in those days to give you health, vitality and long life. Soda shops popped up all over the country. It wasn't long until syrup flavorings were added to sweeten the taste. One summer in 1874 a desperate concessionaire who ran out of syrup during the noon rush, scooped ice cream into a glass of bubbly water and the ice cream soda was born.

A few years later prohibitionists in Evanston, Illinois, declared soda water intoxicating and outlawed sodas on Sunday. An ingenious drug store operator found a loophole. He left out the soda water and simply served the syrup on the top of ice cream. The result was the world's first ice cream "Sunday". The spelling was changed to Sundae when town fathers objected to using the Sabbath's name. (If your soda hasn't arrived yet, call your Server.)

The Ice Cream Age

From the Stone Age, to the Iron Age, to the Nuclear Age, to the Ice Cream Age civilization marches on. Today, of course, the craving for ice cream has spread to the four corners of our planet. As a fiddler, Nero was not so hot, but Nero is a hero in the ice cream world.

HISTORY OF FARRELL'S

Our Founder, Robert Farrell

Farrell's was founded in September, 1963, by Robert Farrell and Ken McCarthy of Portland, Oregon. Bob's the man who brought back the good old 1900's American Ice Cream Parlour. He did it with an unbeatable formula of fantastic fountain fantasies, fabulous food, frolicking fun-filled surroundings, and family type wholesomeness. At Farrell's peak the chain numbered over 130 stores across the United States. Under Bob's leadership there was great success and no store failures. He later sold the restaurants to a major corporation in 1971. As it sometimes happens with large companies, the spark was gone. During its ownership tenure, the company began a divestiture of restaurant assets. By 1995 only one store remained. Keep reading because this story has a happy ending.

Farrell's Rebirth

In 1996, a new company, whose mission is to bring back the heydays of Farrell's past, acquired Farrell's. Our organization is staying true to philosophies upon which the original company was founded. Bob Farrell still resides in Portland and runs several successful restaurant chains and conducts speaking engagements. His "Give 'em the Pickle" presentation has been heard by hundreds of companies nationwide. Bob Farrell is with us each step of the way as we bring Farrell's into the Twenty First Century. We appreciate your presence here today and hope you enjoy Farrell's with us. Oh, what's the "Give 'em the Pickle" thing? It's our commitment to exceed your expectations. Ask one of us and we will give you the whole story. If you have any comments or you would like to grow with us, give us a call. Thanks!

THE

PROMISE SINCE 1963

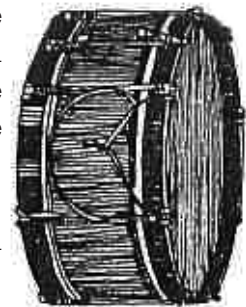

We believe that just by being in business we've made a promise to our guests that their expectations will be exceeded. If we fail to keep our promise, we have no right to be in business. So if we ever let you down, please let us know about it. Without you, we are nothing. Farrell's Support Center (949) 481-7676

Farrell's Is Fabulous Fun

What makes Farrell's Fun?

We think our people make the biggest contribution and we'd like to beat the drum about them. Just take a look around you at the people serving you or creating our fountain fantasies and food festivities.

They come from right here in the community which has always been the practice. There have been over 100,000 people who have worked at a Farrell's over the past thirty years.

The other element of the fun are our guests - you. Countless people have celebrated a birthday, met their spouse, or had their first sip of an ice cream soda at a Farrell's. We want to thank you for letting Farrell's be a part of your lives and the community. We might have left for a while, but we have moved back into town. Remember, when you come to Farrell's, come prepared to have fun, because that's why we are here. When we see you having a good time, we know we've done our job well. (If you have finished your soda by now, how about a sundae?)

HAMBURGERS

Dating back as far as 1884, the hamburger became immensely popular in the 1950's and it looks like Americans will never tire of it. At Farrell's we have selected variations from around the country. Thick, juicy, and cooked to perfection, all burgers are served on an original Farrell's bun, Farrell's own sauce with your choice of today's selection of sides. Any of our hamburgers can be substituted for a turkey or veggie patty. Please add $1.25 to the price below if you want to substitute a chicken breast. Add yesterday's soup or side salad to your sandwich for $1.95

- THE ALL AMERICAN $5.75
Farrell's old-fashioned burger, on an onion bun, with lettuce, pickle, onion and tomato. Add your choice of cheese .40; Cheddar, American, Swiss, Monterey jack, or Pepper jack cheese.
- LAREDO BURGER $6.99
Our All American topped with green chili and Pepper jack cheese.

SANDWICHES

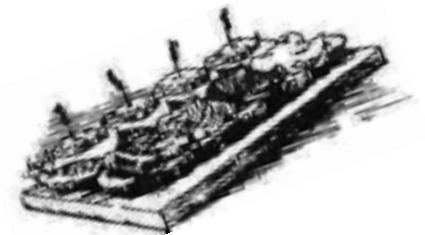

When a savvy 18th-century servant layered some meat between two slices of bread for the fourth Earl of Sandwich, who wouldn't leave the table during a card game, John Montagu created culinary history. Although the British population never sank its teeth into this idea, Americans embraced the concept and found endless variations. Around the time of the American Civil War, sandwiches were being served as a simple supper. By the mid-20th century, the sandwich had become a major mealtime tradition.

Add soup or side salad for $1.95 All sandwiches served with your choice of today's selection of sides.

- REUBEN $7.39
Although many consider this sandwich a New York delicatessen original, Nebraska also lays claim to the invention. A generous helping of tender corned beef, zesty Swiss cheese, Thousand Island dressing, and sauerkraut blended and lavishly heaped on grilled rye bread.
- THE CLUB $7.39
Thought to have originated by a promotion on American passenger trains. Passengers could get a sandwich with three slices of bread in the club car. (No Joke.) We use breast of turkey, bacon, lettuce, Swiss cheese, tomatoes, and sauce on toasted sourdough bread.
- PHILLY CHEESE STEAK $7.99
A 1930's invention, it's all in the name. Very thinly sliced steak, sautéed onions, green bell peppers, mushrooms, oozing mozzarella cheese, and mayo on a toasted French roll.
- GRILLED CHICKEN SANDWICH $7.39
Tender marinated chicken breast grilled to perfection. Lettuce, tomato, and mayonnaise on a toasted roll.
- BLT $6.39
If you ever wondered about the difference between an abbreviation & acronym this is an abbreviation for bacon, lettuce, and tomato. Served on toasted egg bread with sauce.
- HAM AND CHEESE STACK $7.19
Tasty stacked ham served on rye bread with Farrell's sauce, Swiss cheese, lettuce and tomato.

GASTRONOMIC DELICATESSE NEPICUREAN'S DELIGHT
The Gastro is available hot or cold. Wow! Corned beef, delicious stacked ham, moist turkey, Swiss cheese, crisp lettuce, red ripe tomatoes, sliced onions, and Italian dressing on a roll. It's an evening's eating for 1 to 4 people.

- SINGLE GASTRO. $6.95
A hearty treat for you
- MINI GASTRO. $13.75
A hearty treat for two.
- GIANT GASTRO. $27.95
Enough for a whole crew.

Pizza

An oven fresh fifteen-inch crust, oozing mozzarella cheese over tangy tomato sauce. Our cousin Mario would be proud!
